But suddenly, Jane slipped on the wet grass and rolled down a steep _____ and hurt her leg. She was all _____ at the bottom while her friend was at the top. Jane didn't know what to do, so she sat on a nearby _____-like rock to rest and wait as her friend went to get help. She started to get worried after a while, so in a weak _____, she called out for help, but no one came. She started to _____ on her fear, but then she remembered to take deep breaths and calm herself down.

As the minutes passed, Jane's leg started to throb and she realized it might be _____ and that she had to find a way to get out and go home. She looked around and spotted a _____ hanging from a tree. Worried about her situation, she gathered the strength to climb the rope. She got to the top, just as her friend arrived with some help.

Once she was safely back at home, and her friend had left, she realized that the _____ she lived by, "where there's a will, there's a way", had never been truer. She also noticed that her leg had started to feel better and she felt relieved that it wouldn't keep her down for long.

The next day, she went to cast her _____ in the town's election. As she walked to the polling station, she realized that she had never felt more grateful for her two strong _____ in her legs. She cast her vote and then headed to the _____ to buy some food.

Unfortunately, while she was cooking, the _____ broke and she was left with cold food. But Jane didn't let it get her down. She realized that she had everything she needed to be happy: a roof over her head, food on the table, and her health. And so, she sat there alone, but happy, in her home, enjoying the inner peace she felt because knew that everything would turn out great.
